Effective Volunteer Supervision & Sanity...Sign Me Up!

Supervision is the most significant activity performed by staff and leadership volunteers who partner with volunteers to deliver services or advocacy for your mission/cause. Volunteer retention is often linked to how well this function is carried out.

How can you supervise volunteers so that the return on investment in training, overseeing and supporting the work of volunteers is positive for the volunteers and you? Are you feeling that supervising volunteers is "another thing to do" rather than a means for enhancing your work? Would you like to improve your supervision skills? If so, don't miss this opportunity to take a closer look at what it takes to supervise well including the resources, skills and attributes needed to carry out this significant function.

About the Speaker:

Colleen Pulvermacher is the UW-Extension 4-H Youth Development Educator for Vernon County. Colleen oversees the youth development programs in Vernon County, including 4-H clubs, Teen Court, and Career Education serving 638 youth grades K-12 and 200 adult volunteers. Colleen has a particular interest in Volunteer Development and has developed an innovative educational program of retreats to educate 4-H volunteers which has earned state, regional and national excellence awards. Colleen's background in education, passion for volunteerism, love of people and multiple personal experiences as a volunteer herself, make her a sought after educator and presenter. Colleen is a member of the Wisconsin Volunteer Coordinator's Association, the Wisconsin and National Associations of Extension 4-H Youth Development Professionals, and Epsilon Sigma Phi.
